"I do not feel that I have looked suffi-ciently far into the matter to determine its merits," Mr. Porter stated. "Per-sonally. I think that the nonelevery of sundays, as bringing rolled to Sunday workers, is all right."

Mr. Porter, who is division manager of the Chesspeake and Potomac Telephone Company, said he expected the curtail-ment of the Sunday service would not af-fect the company's business.

It was recalled by members of both ment of the Sunday service would not air feet the company's business.

It was recalled by members of both the Board of Trade and the Chamber of Coupmerce that those bodies had fav-ored the rules by which delivery and col-lection of mail by the carriers on Sun-day was discontinued. Their sentiments, as expressed on that issue, were that the resultant inconvenience to citizens was inconsiderable, while the accrued benefits to the carriers were cheeply and cheerily bought at so slight a loss.

Similar sentiments were expressed when the Sunday service at the carriers' win-dows was discontinued.

Grant, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Both declared that they saw no reason why citizens who rent lock boxes should not get their Sunday mail.

"If citizens pay for special boxes they ought to have the privilege of getting their mail," President Cyster said. "I do not see any reason for a discrimination in favor of hotels and the press. If they get their Sunday mail there is no reason why others shoul' not."

The objections of Capt. Oyster and Mr. Grant had few choes in Washington, but in other cities there was far more adverse than favorable exticism. The hotel men here say:
"If we can get our mail on Sundays we have no reason to complain against the new regulations. But if we can't, then we are not included in the provisions of the new legislation as it will be put for the commerce of the control of the commerce of the new legislation as it will be put for the control of the control

The hotel men in other cities, making no allowance for any exception that may The hote; men in other cities, making no allowance for any exception that may be made in their favor, are up in arms against the regulations. So are bankers and other business men, which is not the case here. There are few of them opposed. A broker said that he did not want noall on Sunday.

"If we get mail on Saturday afternoon, after the half day's work is dune, we don't open it. We couldn't do anything with it if we did open it and read it twenty times.

Wenty times.
"Even Saturday is getting to be somewhat of a 'dies non' in business. Husiness is beginning to crase practically on Fri-is beginning to crosse practically under day afternoon."

If the general delivery is closed Sundays, as is possible, there probably will also many complains, especially from a reasients in the city. Officials of the Washington post-office said yesterday they did not know if this would be done. No expressions of opinion by people of the District have been received at the Washington post-office, it was said by officials there yesterday. The officials believe that the complaints will be few. believe that the complaints will be few. Officials of the Post-office Department and they, too, had not had any expressions from the public as to the effects of the new service. A Sunday's trying out, it is though, will be the only means at the estimation of what the public thinks of the new plan.

Daring Aviator Fails to Pass Altitude Test Owing to Engine Troubles.

MAKES LAST TRY AFTER DARK

Lincoln Beachey, the daring aviator, made three unsuccessful attempts to pass the altitude text in his weight-carrying Curris bipiane, at the army aviation field at College Park presterding afternoon. Beachey started sloft on the third flight about dusk, and darkness was over the field before he nightled. It was necessary for the army officers to build a large bon-fire on the field to all the aviator in making a start slanding. All three trips were without accident, and remained in the air nine minutes. He was compelled the air nine minutes. He was compelled to deseemed on account of engine trouble. During the second flight he reached an altitude of a little more than 1.36 feet. The time sloft was four term in the second of 1.00 feet in six minutes. The aviator reached the field at 7.55 o'clock. Easine trouble we experienced on all of the flights. The aviator was accompanied on the flights by I. L. Cruits, a mechanician from the Curtis Aeroplane Company.

Lieut Milling made a short flight in the new weight-carrying Wight bioliane.

Makes Short Flight.

Lieut. Milling made a short flight in the new weight-carrying Wright biplans which has been purchased by the government, taking as his passenger Commodore J. C. Glimore. Lieut. Arnold went aloft in the same machine, carrying Capt. Lamphone, of the General Staff of the army. They remained in the sir five minutes.
